Dear PHL Parent / Guardian:

The Provo Hockey League is considering sending a team(s) to a 2Hot4Ice tournament in Atlanta, Georgia, USA from June 24 to 27, 2010. <http://www.2hot4ice.com/finals2010.htm>

This is the same organization which hosted the tournament the TC Islanders attended in Raleigh North Carolina a few years ago, which was well organized and a great learning experience for the players.

The teams being considered are the 10U, 12U, and 14U divisions pending player / parent interest as described below;

- Player's age at the start of the tournament (girls deduct 1 year)
- Player's documentation for travel to USA
- Player's availability at the tournament dates (June 23 – 28)
- Player's availability to practice 2 times / week mid April to June
- Player's ability to pay court / travel costs not covered by fundraising

Please confirm by Jan 23, 2010 if you wish to have your player considered for this event.

The teams will be selected from the list of eligible players by the PHL committee and team coaches based on each player's performance, attitude, and behavior through the balance of the PHL season. There will be no additional try outs. The team(s) will be announced at the end of the PHL season and commence court and dry-land training by mid April. Players and parents/guardians will be expected to actively participate in fundraising events. Players not participating in practices or displaying a positive attitude will be removed from the team.

Please confirm your player's interest in the above to alarkin@tcway.tc by Jan 23. The list of players will not be published or made public..

Yours truly,

Al Larkin
